

What percentage of Tunisia's electricity is renewable?

In 2022, only 3% of Tunisia's electricity is generated from renewables, including hydroelectric, solar, and wind energy. While STEG continues to resist private investment in the sector, Parliament's 2015 energy law encourages IPPs in renewable energy technologies.

How will elmed help Tunisia achieve energy independence?

Tunisia's energy independence also goes through renewable energies. ELMED will enable stabilize the power grid on both sides of the Mediterranean, and export electricity when possible. This is a real transition opportunity for Tunisia, in terms of economy, employment and emissions reduction.

What is the energy sector in Tunisia?

The sector also offers opportunities for possible Build-Own-Operate (BOO) or Build-Operate-Transfer (BOT) projects. Much of Tunisia's electricity production comes from gas turbines. Major players in this sector include General Electric (USA), Mitsubishi (Japan), Ansaldo (Italy), and Siemens (Germany).

What are Tunisia's energy projects?

One third of the projects will be for wind farms and two thirds for solar photovoltaics. Tunisia's national grid is connected to those of Algeria and Libya which together helped supply about 12% of Tunisia's power consumption in the first half of 2023.

Can Steg meet peak summer electricity demand in Tunisia?

STEG is hard-pressed to meet peak summer electricity demand, let alone keep up with Tunisia's annual 5% growth in power consumption. Approximately 97% of Tunisia's electricity is generated from fossil fuels, mainly natural gas. Through June 2023, nearly 47% of Tunisia's natural gas needs were met through imports (mainly from Algeria).

Where does Tunisia's electricity come from?

Much of Tunisia's electricity production comes from gas turbines. Major players in this sector include General Electric (USA), Mitsubishi (Japan), Ansaldo (Italy), and Siemens (Germany). In 2019, STEG launched a tender to install a pilot smart grid power distribution system of 400,000 smart meters.
